

Pinterest Construction Review - First-Pass Grouping Proposal

Date: 2026-03-07 Scope: Remaining 29 items from `pinterest_construction.html`

Reference review page: `data/exports/classification_review_checkpoint_20260307/pinterest_constru`

Purpose

This is a first-pass grouping proposal for the remaining Pinterest items still landing on the construction track.

The point is not to finalize every item immediately. The point is to sort the remaining items into a small number of meaningful buckets so the taxonomy can be adjusted deliberately.

Proposed groups

1. Move to style reference

Count: 13

These do not read as construction concerns. They read more like inspirational reference material, conceptual design reference, material reference, or style-led execution reference.

3. Construction-adjacent maintenance / repair / utility

Count: 5

These are not strong fits for either style or construction concern as currently defined. They look more like maintenance, repair, utility, or home-improvement technique content.

For now they can remain under construction if necessary, but they are good candidates for a future adjacent bucket.

4. Move to irrelevant / noisy misfire

Count: 3

These do not look like useful house-planning or style-reference items under the current project goals.

Items:

 - emergency preparedness / survival gear, not house-planning content

Suggested taxonomy implication

The remaining Pinterest items point to four meaningful buckets:

1. style reference plans
2. style reference materials / details
3. construction concerns
4. maintenance / repair / utility

That fourth bucket appears repeatedly enough that it may need to become explicit later, instead of forcing those items into either `construction_concern` or `irrelevant`.

Immediate recommendation

Short-term:

- move the high-confidence plan items to a style-side plan/reference category
- move the obvious noisy items to irrelevant
- keep the true construction items on construction
- leave the maintenance/repair/utility bucket as a flagged design question

Open questions for Jim

1. Should `style reference plans` live fully on the style side?
2. Should maintenance/repair/utility become its own track or subtrack later?
3. Should items like `How to Repair Cracked Concrete` and `Water Stains On Your Ceiling` stay visible in construction for now, or be moved out until that adjacent bucket exists?
